

STEWART-CASSIAR

Stewart-Cassiar (Highway 37)
 The Stewart-Cassiar Highway is the most northwestern highway in British Columbia. Also known as the Dease Lake Highway, the Stikine Highway, or Highway 37, the road starts at a junction between Smithers and Terrace and winds north to terminate at the Alaska Highway just west of Watson Lake. The turnoff at the Alaska Highway is known as Junction 37.

The highway, an alternative route to Yukon versus The Alaska Highway (Highway 97), offers unparalleled scenery and access to some of the most remote areas of northwest British Columbia. Be sure to stock up in Prince George or at one of the smaller communities en-route before reaching the remote areas.

“... unparalleled scenery and access to some of the most remote areas of northwest British Columbia ...”